MATTERS IN THE COURTS.

Mr. Bush Seeks to Get His Money Through a Replevin Suit. Zachariah Bush has brought suit in the Superior Court against Robert Bush, Robert Burt, detective Lloyd and W. O. McKinney, sergeant of the police court, to replevin the $1,329 Bush and Burt had in their possession when they were arrested. When the confidence men were brought here the money was turned over to the station-house officials in the usual way. and after the men were arraigned in court, was deposited in bank by Sergeant McKinney. The accused attempted to give bond, and, as they would lay claim to the money in case they were released, Mr. Bush desires to get it in his possession. Bush and Long will have their preliminary hearing before acting Mayor Smock

The new race-course at the State fair grounds ! has been completed, and it will be used to-morrow, for the first time, by giving an entertainment on the grounds. There will be some racing, several leading horsemen having promised to enter their horses, and in addition, Prot. E. D. Hogen, who has been giving exhibitions all over the country to immense crowds, will make his hazardous parachute descent of several thousand feet from his balloon. The exhibition he gives is somewhat remarkable. After he rises nearly 2,000 feet he enters the parachute, loosens it from the balloon, and drops down to the earth at an easy rate.

THEY SHOW THEIR COLORS

A So-Called Independent Movement Altogether Democratic in Purpose.

John Milton Turner Has a Hard Time in Becoming a Leader-Wide Awake Republicans and Their Ward-Club Organizations.

About two-thirds of the colored men who have come here to hold what they call a national political conference, and at most there are not twenty five of them, are followers of Cleveland, whom they seem to regard as the embodiment of the Democratic party. One of them who is considered a boss among certain ones of his race about Washington City was sitting in English's Hotel, yesterday afternoon, with no one to talk to but a companion of equal importance. About that time in an upper room of the hotel were the other conferees who were having a parrot-and-monkey time over the temporary organization. The lonely politician did not evince any anxiety to take part in that caucus in which the work of to-day's conference was being shaped, but he was ready to resent any intimation that the purpose of gathering was to represent the interest of the independent colored men. He expressed himself as being distinctively a Democrat, closing with the remark: "We don't propose to let any body whom we cannot trust manage this affair." This was a shot at J. Milton Turner, who favors the independent movement, and who is indeed the issue between the contending factions. The Democrate do not want Turner to come into the convention unless he disavows his independent scheme.

Yesterday afternoon what few colored strangers there are in the city met to arrange the plan of organization. Turner injected into the caucus a proposition to select a committee who should choose the permanent chairman for today's meeting. He had four or five with him, and the opposition the Democrats showed brought on a row. Turner wanted to be chair-man and direct the whole affair without the assistance of E. G. Walker, of Massachusetts; Wilham T. Scott, Charles Nelson and Thos. Brown, of Illinois; J. H. Smith, of Tennesse; Edward Nahar, of Missouri; William Keilev and William P. Mathews, of Kansas; William V. Tennesse; V. Turner, of North Carolina; George W. Fisher, of Virginia; Walter G. Clark, of Michigan; R. A. Jones and Herbert Clark, of Chio, and Charles Shelton, of Indiana. Joseph Bouser, of Illinois, and James M. Veou, of Missouri, are with Turner. But neither in the caucus nor in the city were any of the col-ored men of national prominence whose names were signed to the call for the conference or convention. But enough were here to bring on at the outset a first-class row. Turner is an aggressive man, and although sadly in the minority, he stood his ground until the caucus adjourned. After taking a breathing spell they went at the matter of selecting officers again, and kept up the discussions with all the warmth personal allusions give to a caucus of this kind. The incident of the afternoon, though, occurred when Boyd, of Arkansas, rushed out of the room in a very excited manner and down into the office, swearing at a lively rate, proclaiming that "no insignificant clique" could speak for his people without giving them a chance to be heard. The whole business te a chance to be heard. The whole business to characterized as a Democratic side show, which every colored man would do well to avoid. Friends interfered and soon succeeded in pacifying Mr. Boyd, though for some moments he was in a very heated frame of mind, and did not refrain from airing the whole proceedings in a very breezy style. But the heated arguments in the room went on, with George W. Fisher leading, with others, the Democratic faction. This man holds a position as spittoon-cleaner in the House of Representatives, through the influence of Congressman O'Ferrall, of Virginia, and had a little experience in Washington recently that rather took his breath. It so happens that there are two members of the House of Representatives by the name of Thompson, one from Ohio, who is a Republican, and one from California, who is a Democrat. Now Mr. Fisher get the two members confused, and in an unguarded moment struck the Republican Representative for "boodle" to run the colored Democratic side-"boodle" to run the colored Democratic side-show. He explained that the thing was in interest of the Democracy, and consequently they ought to up for it. He was nearly that consequently they ought to put up for it. He was nearly carried off his feet, however, by the caustic reply of the Ohio man, who assured him that he could not consistently aid the movement in which Mr. Fisher was engaged, nor could be see how any self-respecting colored man could be so degraded as to sell his manhood and stuitify degraded as to sell his manhood and stuitify himself by indorsing the party which has always been against the best interest of the negro race. It is said Mr. Fisher can now tell the two Thompson's apart for six blocks away. But that incident has not effectually cooled Fisher's arder in behalf of Democracy. Some of the Democrats of this crowd want to give Peter H. Clark, of Cincianati, the leadership, and this added to Turner's aggravation. He went at the brethren with hearty good will, but one man came at him with, "You flop too much. We know you of old. If you run this affair where will we come in?" That is the feeling they hold towards Turner who threatened to drop the whole matter. But at this the others did not take fright for they seem to be on the inside of Democratic councils at Washington. Last night's caucus lasted several hours and was exciting. The controversy grew so warm at one time that a fight seemed imminent One indignant man drew a chair on the Hon. J. Milton Turner, but was prevented from striking him. The election of temporary officers resulted in the selection of Samuel Shelton, of Evansville, as chairman, and Clifford H. Plummer, of Boston, Mass., secretary. Both are rank Democrats, and have been for several years, and their selection means that the affair is to be Democratic in all the word implies. After the caucus a Journal reporter met Plummer, the secretary. "So far as I am concerned," said he, "there is no use in disguising this thing any further. You can state that it is a Democratic convention, and that no person who is not a Democrat is going to have anything to do with it. I came here all the way from Boston to attend a convention of that kind, and if it is not a Democratic affair I will not serve "The real fight will come up after the convention meets, will it not?" the reporter asked. "Those who want an independent meeting will try to capture the convention, but they will not succeed. As I said before, we came here to hold a Democratic convention, and we are going As further evidence that there is going to be nothing "independent" about the gathering it may be stated that after the conference on temporary officers the delegates went over to the Democratic State central committee rooms and held a meeting, which was addressed by several leading Democrats. The Democratic State central committee, in order that the convention may not get from under its protecting wing, has tendered it the free use of the committee rooms, and the meetings will be held there.

After the meeting at the Democratic headquarters another cancus was held, relative to a permanent chairman, and Peter H. Clark, of Cincinnati, was chosen. He represents the straight-out Democrats. An effort will be made to beat him in the convention, but as a good many who came here to attend the meeting have refused to have anything to do with it he will likely be chosen.

Henry P. Hill, the colored attorney, in speaking of the convention, said, to a Journal reporter: "These colored men who propose to vote the Democratic ticket may be wiser than I am, but I have never been given a single reason why I should leave the Republican party. I think a negro who will vote the Democratic ticket ought to be back in slavery. Had that party had its way we would still be in slavery, and if it had the power, after were freed, we would have been banished to Africa. It is a party that has always opposed every movement that would benefit the colored people, and yet a few men will say they will vote with it. If the convention is going to be an independent affair. as they say. I propose to attend and make some speeches. In what I say, I shall tell them plainly just what I think of a colored man that will vote the Democratic ticket."

Cleveland's Civil Service in This City. Mr. Lucius B. Swift, in a letter to the News, reviews President Cleveland's "civil-service reform" in Indianapolis, and in this State. The concluding part of his letter is specially worth reading. Mr. Swift says:

"I have spoken of the soldiers, and I ask you to allow me a word further, to illustrate the meanness of the President's insinuation. I hope that my estimate of the value of the service of those who fought down the rebellion will never become duiled. We may justly admire Southern bravery. We should become with the South as though the war had never been. Yet there was but one right side to that contest, and never become duiled. We may justly admire Southern bravery. We should become with the South as though the war had never been. Yet there was but one right side to that contest, and that was the side of the Union soldiers. They saved the life of the Nation, with all that that means. They will always be entitled to the peculiar respect and consideration of the country. Other things being equal, they should have the preference in public employment. A chance to earn wages is better than a pension, or may often deservedly supplement a pension. When I read the President's charge of insolence and disloyalty to the service. I thought of Wallace Foster. He was a distributing clerk in our postoffice the night Mr. Jones took charge. He was stone deaf from exposure in the swamps of the Chickahominy. He earned all the money the government paid him. He had a family to support. He was discharged instantly in order that his salary might be taken to make up a salary for Mr. Jones's sen and John Dodd, who wanted $3,500 for doing work which one man had been doing for $2,000 which one man had been doing for $2,000. "And I thought of James M. Eades, who was clerk at the general delivery. He was an admirable clerk, and, like Mr. Foster, a good oitizen and in every way an estimable man. He was discharged without cause to make room for men of the stripe of John R. Tompkins and George Kuhn. He now climbs in and out of a grocery wagon as best be can with a wooden leg, which is the dumb witness of his loss as a

"I could set out a multitude of cases, civilian and soldier, all of which have been laid before the President, illustrative of the tens of thousands who have been dismissed, but who never snew the meaning of insolence or disloyalty or inefficiency.

Republican Clubs. A meeting of the Second Ward Harrison and Morton Club was held last night in No. 9 engine-house, corner Ash and Seventh streets. The club now numbers 420, twenty-eight accessions being made last night. It is the intention to form a parade company, picked from the club, and to that end a fancy uniform will be adopted at an early meeting. The regular campaign uniform will be a black plug hat linen dusters, canes and badges, and it is the desire of all the members that General Harrison's own ward make a showing in coming campaign dem-strations that will show something more than mere political enthusiaem. The organization is now completed, and everything bids fair for a prosperous future. The Ninth Ward Harrison and Morton Club held what can be very properly termed a rous-ing meeting last night. Over two hundred woters were present, completely filling Reich-wein's Hall, at the corner of Market and Noble streets. Fifty new names were added to the membership roll. Addresses were delivered by Captain Ben Johnson, D. B. Shideler and Gen. John Coburn. Each made a speech that created much enthusiasm. A drum corps was orratification meeting of its own on Tuesday following the State convention. A committee, composed of Royal Hamer, Andrew Smith and

Taylor Elliott, was appointed to invite prom-inent speakers to address that meeting. The Sixth ward Republicans last night held a meeting on the corner of Fort Wayne avenue and St. Mary's street. No permanent officers were elected, but a large number of signers to the membership roll were secured. The greatest excitement prevailed as five prominent citizens of the ward, four of whom have been stanch Democrats and one a Greenbacker, signified their intention of supporting Harrison and Morton. Their names are well known and can be given to the public if necessary. The organization of the club will be completed at its next

The Thirteenth Ward Harrison and Morton Club met last night and took steps toward permanent organization. The following officers were elected: President, George Merritt; vicepresident, Sid Hinton; recording secretary, Dr.
John B. Long, corresponding secretary, William Williams, and treasurer, F. P. Smith. Another meeting will be held next Friday night, at which further organization will be completed. Due notice will be given, and it is desired that as large a number as possible attend.

The Republicans of the Twelfth ward organized a Harrison and Morton club last night, at No. 120 West New York street, with 103 members. M. M. Cummins was elected temporary chairman, and C. S. Wells, secretary. No reg-ular officers were elected, but the following committee was appointed to report on permanent organization next Friday night: Jerry Weakley, Wm. H. Cooper, Harry S. New, Charles S. Wills and Wm. Short.

John Kern as an Independent. John W. Kern was at the New Denison Hotel yesterday afternoon, and was talking to a crowd of a dozen or more Illinois visitors. "No," said he, with much emphasis and a great show of candor, "as an independent voter I can't vote for General Harrison-never; and, gentlemen, there are thousands in Indiana like myself, independents, who will not vote for him." The crowd got larger as he spoke, and he went over his little speech again, making the assertion stronger, that as an independent he couldn't vote for Harrison. At this point, an Indianapolis citizen, overhearing the masquerading John, plucked the feathers from him by remarking, "No, gentlemen, that man won't vote for Gen. Harrison, and for a very good reason. That is John W. Kern, candidate for Reporter of the Supreme Court on the Democratic State ticket."
There was a shout of derisive laughter from the Illinoisans at this exposure of the "independout. Mr. kern was seriously ruffled, and tried to cover his discomfiture by a bluff, offering to bet a large amount that Harrison would not carry Indiana. A dozen handfuls of bank-notes flashed in the air, one gentleman holding up a wad as big round as a ten-year-old boy's leg. Kern, unable to escape, was brought up to the hotel counter, where, after considerable badger-ing, he put up a certified check for $25, which Huntington Herald. John I. Dille, has finally accepted the very responsible political position of secretary of the Republican State central committee, and is now in Indianapolis attending to its duties. Mr. Dille is a thoroughly honest and conscientious political worker, a good organizer, and the State central committee has made a wise selection, and one which reflects credit upon the Republican party. His transfer to a wider field than Huntington county this campaign is a fitless a matter of regret to the Republicans of Huntington county among whom his counsels will be greatly missed.

County Headquarters.

The Republican county central committee opened is headquarters yesterday on the first floor of the Denison House Block. A large. well-arranged room has been secured, and has been very handsomely decorated with Republican emblems, American flars and pictures of the great men who have served the party. The headquarters will be open every day, with Secretary Saulcy in charge, and visitors will always be welcome.

Meetings to Come.

The Republicans of the Eleventh ward will meet to-night at 7:30 in the rooms of the county central committee, at the New Denison. The First ward Harrison and Morton Club will meet at the club-room, corner of Home and Columbia avenues, this evening. Several good speakers will address the meeting.

Foreishing Bad Milk.

Complaint has been made to the city health board that a man living on Iowa street is selling milk from cows that have cancer on the jaw. The complaint also says that several children of the neighborhood are suffering from a disease, resempling cancer, and the fear is expressed that it has been contracted by drinking the milk from the diseased cow. The health officers have begun an investigation of the matter.

Democrats Should Come Off.

Boston Herald (Dem.) On the whole, we should say that the Democrats are not in a position to saly much against their Republican brethren on the subject of the railroad influence that made itself so prominent at the Chicago convention. No less than seven of the ten members of the exective committee who will have charge of the Democratic campaign are prominently identified, with railroads and Chairman Brice is popularly supposed to have made a fortune of something like $10,000.000 through his connection with Southern railway properties. On the railroad issue the Democrats might as well come off.
